FAMINE IN KANSAS.

An Appeal to the Charitable for Contributions.

TOPEKA, November 20.—The Kansas State Central Relief Committee, at a meeting in this city, issued an address to the people, setting forth the extent of the destitution in this region and the plan proposed for relief. The address states: We have sufficient proof that in some cases solicitors of aid are unprincipled persons, that they are actuated by selfish motives, and that they are entirely unworthy of confidence. We but discharge an important duty devolved upon us by our appointment when we warn our friends against placing their benefactions in the hands of unauthorized, irresponsible and mercenary parties. If there are those outside of the State who desire to aid us in supplying the wants of our hardy, industrious, but now unfortunate pioneers, this committee affords them a mode through which their contributions may be judiciously applied, as proposed by the donors, and will be accounted for. All persons now engaged or proposing to engage in soliciting contributions, either in this State or beyond it, upon satisfying this committee of their fitness for such service, will be recommended to the Executive Department of the State for endorsement. Such endorsement, made by the Governor, will be a guaranty of the responsibility of the party to whom it is granted, and a lack of endorsement in any case should not be overlooked by those to whom application may be made. Whatever contribution of money or supplies may be sent to this committee will be properly and judiciously distributed among the needy. Individuals or local committees deirving more specific information concerning matters connected with the relief of our people should address directly the secretary of the committee, and all remittances of funds should be made to the Treasurer at Topeka. With emphasis we assert that our suffering people are not wanting in enterprise, in courage, nor in any of the elements of manhood. The uncomplaining patience with which even women and children are enduring the misfortunes that have fallen upon them is nothing short of heroic. Our people have not lost faith in themselves, nor in the resources of the State in which they live. On their behalf, we confidently appeal to the liberality of those who consider it a privilege to minister to the wants of the suffering.

E. S. SLOVER,
Lieutenant Governor and President Kansas Central Relief Committee.

PETROLEUM MATTERS.

Bradley & Chambers' No. 3 well, on the McCallister farm, St. Joe, began flowing Thursday evening at the rate of three hundred barrels.

From the Millerstown district we learn that Prentice & Co. struck the fourth sand on the Barnhart farm Thursday, and is doing one hundred barrels daily. Bronson has two wells on the Boyd farm doing one hundred barrels respectively.

Advices from Petrolia state that the Lady Hunter is flowing six to seven hundred barrels. The owners are laying a private line to the river. The "Boss" was torpedoed on Monday morning, increasing to five hundred. A. Kern, No. 2, on the Snow farm, is still flowing over three hundred, with a bit in the hole since the last agitation of the well.

A twelve hundred barrel tank on the Jenkins farm, Karns City, burst Thursday. The tank was full of oil, all of which was lost. The owners are McKay & Co., of Pittsburgh.

Petrolia Centre is in a state of desolation, according to a correspondent.

In the good old ante-fire times the "Sherman House" was Chicago's most popular hotel. We are glad to know that this popularity is not less deserved now than it was then. The new "Sherman" even surpasses the old.

FRANCE.

Union of Republicans.

PARIS, November 20.—M. Louis Blanc, who sits in the Assembly for the Department of the Seine, has issued a manifesto advising a union of all Republicans in that body, instead of a coalition of Centres, which he deems impossible.

He denies the right of the present Assembly to form a constitution, as it was not elected for that purpose. Every appeal to the voters shows that the country is at variance with the Assembly. It is absurd to ask a Moderate majority for republican institutions. He points out the danger of a Second Chamber, which would become a weapon against the republic. The prolongation of the present state of uncertainty only favors Bonapartists.

SYRIA.

Outrage on American Missionaries.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 20.—Mr. Boker, Minister of the United States, recently received information that the residence of the American missionaries in Latakia, Syria, was violated by an armed force. He immediately called upon the Grand Vizier and had a long conversation with him on the subject of the outrage.

The Grand Vizier said he was waiting for the report of the Governor of Syria, and could take no action until it was received, but he promised most positively that the Porte would give the United States Government full and complete satisfaction if wrong had been done.

Willard, of Chicago, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Mary E. Johnson, of Brooklyn, Finance Secretary; Mrs. Wm. O. Ingham, of Cleveland, Treasurer. He is a native of Geneva, Switzerland, and was ordained in this country in 1860. Since then he has been a missionary priest in the United States, Cuba and various portions of Europe, and has recently been connected with St. Peter's church in this city.

The Bowen-Barnes Slander Suit.

The Case of Tilton vs. Beecher.

NEW YORK, November 20, 1874.

Slander Suit.

The slander suit of Henry C. Bowen, against Demas Barnes, one of the numerous actions growing out of the Brooklyn scandal, was begun to-day in the Kings County Court of Sessions.

The case was submitted to the jury without argument on either side. The Judge charged that proof of malice was necessary to convict, and the jury, after a brief consultation, brought in a verdict of acquittal. The jurors at the same time handed a written statement to the Court, to the effect that while the defendant was legally exempt from conviction, yet they believed that the printed matter in the Argus relating to the deceased Mrs. Bowen was atrocious and cruel.

It affirms Judge Neilson's order and every part thereof. Beecher's counsel have decided to appeal from the order of the general term to the Court of Appeals

Warrants in Bankruptcy.

A warrant in bankruptcy has been issued against the estate of Sarah Kaufman, Henry Mayer and Charles N. Kaufman, formerly engaged in the mercantile and banking business, and the attorneys for the petitioning creditors have issued notices forbidding the payment of any debts, or the delivery of any property to them. The liabilities of the firm are about $1,000,000.

Delivery of Grain.

G. R. Blanchard, Vice President of the Erie Railroad, has addressed to the President of the Produce Exchange a very elaborate statement of his views of the trunk lines of railway touching the delivery of grain in this city. Blanchard lays especial stress on the necessity of the system of grading and inspecting grain in New York.

THE CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, November 20, 1874.

Arkansas Affairs.

Judge Poland, Chairman of the Congressional Committee to investigate the Arkansas troubles, arrived here this morning, and had a conference with Attorney General Williams prior to the meeting of the Cabinet. He will have an audience with the President to-morrow, and will leave for his home in Vermont to-morrow evening. Judge Poland states that the report of the committee will not be prepared until after the meeting of Congress, as all the testimony taken at different times by the various members of the committee has not yet been examined by the full committee, and which must be carefully looked into before the report can be obtained.

The cabinet session to-day continued nearly three hours. All the members except Postmaster General Jewell were present. Arkansas matters were a subject of comment. Attorney General Williams submitted telegrams from Senator Clayton and several State officers in Arkansas, urging the recognition of the Smith party by the Federal Government, but the general opinion of the cabinet was, that since their last meeting nothing has occurred to alter the decision made at that time, namely: that the Goverment has not in its possession such information as would justify any interference with the controversy in that State.

Governor Garland, of Arkansas, telegraph his counsel here to-day from Little Rock as follows: "All is peace. No noise. No disturbance."

The Safe Burglary Case.

In the safe burglary case to-day Mr. Smithers addressed the jury in behalf of the defense. Mr. Harrington said it was his purpose to address the jury, but he did not expect to be called upon to do so before Tuesday at least. They had, however, finally arranged among themselves that Mr. Davidge should conclude the arguments to the jury, and that he (Harrington) would follow Mr. Smithers. He did not expect to occupy more than one hour, and would prefer not to do so until to-morrow.

A New Political Club in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, November 20.—Prominent Republicans of this State have organized a "Commonwealth Club." The preamble to the Constitution recites that the members, dissatisfied with the corruption which now prevails in politics, and convinced that this dissatisfaction is not confined to any political party or section of society, but is shared by all honest men alike, agree to form an association in the hope that thereby a better understanding will be promoted among men who hold these opinions, and that an interest in all public measures will be excited among those who now stand aloof through apathy and disgust. In so doing, they give no pledge, nor do they abandon the organizations to which they now belong, but say: "We know that honesty and purity in public life are of equal importance to all parties, and that nothing is more necessary than that private citizens should take an active and intelligent interest in public affairs."

The officers of the club are E. A. Hoar, President, and Henry L. Pierce, Richard Olney, John Q. Adams and W. F. Perkins, Vice Presidents.

Destructive Fire at Brookville, Pa.—Loss $250,000.

BROOKVILLE, November 20.—A fire broke out here at half-past five this morning, in a livery stable, and very soon spread over the entire block bounded by Pickering and Mill streets, destroying every building on Main street, including the Opera House, Oak Hall Hotel, Franklin House, Masonic Hall, Odd Fellows' Hall, Republican printing office, and a large number of stores and dwellings. The total loss amounts to $250,000; insurance $100,000.

Armed Miners.

SCRANTON, Pa., November 20.—This morning the Dugan gang of miners went to their work armed with Remington rifles. When the miners came out of the colliery this evening they were greeted by a crowd of men and boys, who hissed them, and called them "blacklegs," "thieves," &c., but offered no personal violence. It is supposed the danger is over.

CAPTURED.

A Man Charged With Burglary Taken Into Custody and Committed.

It will be remembered that a burglary took place on Wylie avenue, a few days ago—the store of Mr. James McGregor being entered, and goods to the amount of about fifty dollars being carried off, mention of which has been made in our columns. At the time, suspicion rested on several parties, among whom was John Gallagher. The constables of Alderman Logan went to Dithridge & Co.'s glass manufactory several days ago, to arrest the alleged guilty parties, but did not succeed, as they were vigorously resisted. Yesterday, however, they came across John Gallagher, and took him into custody, when he was taken before Alderman Logan, who committed him for a hearing on Monday.

Worthy of Patronage.

Our friends at the East End should remember that Mr. W. G. Anderson will accommodate them with anything in the line of newspapers, magazines, &c., as efficiently, promptly and as cheaply as they can procure the same in the city. Leave your order with him for the GAZETTE and have it served to your door early and regularly. A fine and elegant stock of tobacco, cigars and fancy goods always on hand as good as the best and as cheap as the cheapest. You cannot bestow your patronage on one more worthy.

Only a Little While.

But a few days are to pass before the last and greatest drawing of the Library Concert. This looks like a very short time in which to accomplish as tremenduous a result, but it will certainly be done. The ticket holders will receive all the millions that are to be distributed; and those who do not hold tickets are equally certain to get nothing. The chance is as good now as ever it was, but the time is very short.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Monthly Report—Practical Views from the National Health Association—Introduction of Infectious Diseases—Street Cleaning by the Board of Health.

A regular meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon in City Hall. Health Officer Gray presented the following report for the month of October:

Received from permits	$42 50
Received from fines	36 50
Total	$79 00
Expended	14 03
	$64 97

Nuisances abated 509. Suits instituted 3. Permits issued 85. The report was received and filed.

Dr. Snively, Physician to the Board, also submitted the following statement of the number of deaths in the city last month. Whole number 291, being two less than for the corresponding month of 1873. The principal causes of death were as follows: Scarlet fever 39, diarrhœal diseases 34, typhoid fever 30, consumption 28, respiratory diseases 22, diphtheria 8 and violence 21.

The report was received after which a bill for $19 presented by the Fallmaster was read and ordered to be paid.

Dr. Snively, who but recently returned from the National Convention of Health Boards, at Philadelphia, reported a number of very useful practical suggestions which he had gathered up while there. From his statement is gleaned the following points:

Regarding drainage it was thought that Boards of Health in connection with City Engineers should have exclusive supervision as to the location and construction of all sewers, and also the cleaning of streets, alleys, yards, courts, &c. Wooden pavements were denounced as prejudicial to the sanitary welfare of cities. Concerning slaughter houses the Convention was a unit on the opinion that the slaughtering for cities should be conducted in a single abbattoir, located as far as practicable from the center of population. The abbattoir to be also an establishment for the rendering of fat, and the manufacture of soap and glue, and under the jurisdiction of the Health department. "One of the most important papers read," said the Doctor, "was one on the stealthy introduction and spread of infectious diseases in large cities, and it is to this subject that I wish particularly to direct your attention. The only diseases mentioned by name are small-pox, cholera, typhus and yellow fevers. If these are the only diseases over which the Board of Health is to exercise control or supervision its duties in this direction, will not be very onerous. Yellow fever we never have; typhus fever but seldom reaches us, being confined exclusively to our seaport cities, and cholera we may not see for ten years, and it is probable that small-pox will call for but little attention during the next or the following year. There are other diseases over which the health department should exercise surveillance, the most prominent of which are scarlet, typhoid and cerebro spinal fevers, and diphtheria. In ten years scarlet fever will cause more deaths than cholera and small-pox combined. The same is true of typhoid fever. From January 1st to November 1st, this year, making ten months, there have been 260 fatal cases of scarlet fever, while during the same period there has been no case of small-pox. The health officers of other cities are combatting these diseases by enforcing isolation, ventilation, cleanliness, &c., while in our city no effort has been made to control them."

The Doctor concluded by suggesting that physicians be requested to report all cases of scarlet and typhoid fevers, and diptheria just as soon as they would a case of small pox, or cholera. His report was refered to the Sanitary Committee and he was voted the thanks of the Board.

Health officer Gray, called the attention of the Board to the matter of street cleaning. He said that in nearly all the cities of the Union, the duty of keeping the streets clean is in the hands of the Board of Health, except here where it is intrusted to the Street Committee. He had no wish to reflect upon any one, but entertained the opinion that the cleaning of thoroughfares could be done cheaper and more effectually by the Board than by any other party. It is also a matter of vital importance to the public health. He said that he had been assured by several Councilmen that they would at an early day bring this matter up in Councils and endeavor to have the business of street cleaning transferred to the Board.

A RAILROAD CASE.

The Difficulty Between the Connellsville and South Western Railroad Companies.

The case of the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad against the South Western Pennsylvania Railroad, came up for argument in the Supreme Court yesterday. The Connellsville Company state that they obtained about seven acres of ground on the line of its road, and between the road and river, immediately below its present depot, at Connellsville, for the purpose of erecting thereon buildings for the use of the road. As soon as they had gained possession of the premises they began improving them for their own convenience and to fulfil the contract made by the Connellsville Mutual Building and Loan Association.

The Southwestern Pennsylvania Company was incorporated in 1871, and authorized its employes "to construct a railroad, with one or more tracks, by such a route as the directors may select from some point on the Pennsylvania Railroad at or near Greensburg, Westmoreland county, by way of Uniontown, in Fayette county, to the boundary of Virginia, and to construct branches." In 1871 the route was surveyed from Greensburg to the Youghiogheny river, and unfortunately passed through the tract of land above named, which the Connellsville Co. claimed rendered it entirely useless to them, whereupon the Southwestern Company was notified that they would not be allowed to cross at that point. The latter company filed a petition praying for an injunction to restrain the Connellsville Co. from interfering with their employes. After the case had been argued, a decree was filed in favor of the Southwestern Company, and an appeal was taken by the Connellsville Company from the decree, and a writ of certiorari was also taken out.

Insurance.

Notwithstanding the hard times no man of prudence will neglect to keep up his policy of insurance, or take out one if he has not enjoyed that pleasure heretofore. Times ought never to be too hard to prevent a man from making himself feel safe in case of a fire, and no wise man will ever run the risk of having perhaps the labor of years swept away by the ravages of fire, and he lose all because he failed to take out a policy of insurance. Believing that nothing will make a man feel safer in a pecuniary sense than a good policy, we advise any of our readers who have not already taken out a policy to do so at once by calling upon Messrs. R. E. Herron & Co., corner Market street and Fourth avenue, (Union Bank Building). We can assure our readers that this firm will at all times be found reliable, courteous, and one in which implicit confidence can be placed.

WHILE Mr. William Bickel, of Butler was returning from Millerstown the other night, three men stopped his horse, knocked him out of the buggy, robbed him, put him back in the buggy and started him home. William arrived in Butler in a badly used up condition. Dr. Bredin dressed his wounds. The affair took place in the woods near Gibson's.

ORGANIZATION MEETING.

There will be a meeting of the subscribers to the membership of

THE TRADESMEN'S Industrial Institute,

At 3 o'clock, on MONDAY, November 23d, in the

GERMANIA BANK BUILDING,

Corner Wood street and Diamond alley,

To organize the Association and elect Directors for the first year. This meeting will also be open to the public to consider general suggestions promotive of the purposes aimed at in organizing such an institution. It is the interest of every

Pittsburgh Business Man and Manufacturer

To encourage in this manufacturing centre an enviable efficiency in the pursuit of that which constitutes the means of its prosperity, namely, its industrial operations. Efficiency can only be obtained by a knowledge of the science connected with the art pursued. That knowledge can only in turn be obtained by a thoroughly organized system of methods. It is the object of this Institute "to support scientific advancement of the INDUSTRIAL ARTS by any methods within the scope of such undertaking," and therefore in organizing a system of methods it is proposed:

1st. To establish a Polytechnic Academy for the instruction of youth in the practical application of science and mathematics to the mechanical and industrial trades, also in architecture, mechanical drawing and in civil and mechanical engineering.

2d. To establish a Museum of Mechanics and Industries.

3d. To conduct the delivery of courses of Practical and Scientific Lectures on the useful arts by members and others.

4th. To collect a Library of Manufacturing, Mechanical, Industrial, Engineering and Scientific Literature.

5th. To hold Exhibitions of American Manufacturers, awarding medals to worthy workmen.

6th. To appoint a thoroughly competent Board of Examiners to aid the development and perfection of new discoveries, inventions and improvements by home talent.

Almost every community (especially manufacturing) throughout the advanced nationalities fosters and sustains institutions of this character. The Franklin Institute, with a membership of over thirteen hundred, composed principally of the leading and prominent manufacturers and business men of Philadelphia, with its 16,000 volumes of useful industrial works, has been in existence since 1824. It has done more in promoting the rank of that city as a Mechanical Metropolis, and in elevating the standard of manufacturing enterprise there than perhaps all other agencies combined. Between thirty and forty lectures are delivered in the Hall of the Institute every winter on various technical subjects, and their school is largely attended—last winter as many as 250 pupils being present. The exhibition of American labor, ingenuity and skill conducted under its auspices from October 6th to November 12th inst., was thronged throughout its continuance by interested and admiring intelligence, the receipts of which were $90,000, with expenses $25,000, leaving a net profit of $65,000, which, as remarked by Mr. Tatham in his announcement of the close of the exhibition, "will enable the Institute more effectually to promote the mechanics and thereby promote the welfare of mankind." The American Institute of New York is another example of promoting and influencing industrial education. Its annual exhibitions in the interest of mechanical invention and manufacturing industry, held of late at their large buildings on Third avenue and 63d street, have long formed a marked attraction to thousands of visitors.

The facilities in Europe for educating machinists, engineers and master workmen, are, perhaps better and more accessible than in this country. The German province of Wurtemberg, for instance, with an area of one-fifth, and a population of one-half of that of Pennsylvania, in addition to its admirable common school system, provides 450 primary industrial schools, 523 farming and trade schools, 76 industrial academies, a chief Agricultural Collge, a chief Trades' College, and finally, as a crowning achievement, a Polytechnic University, equipped with lecture rooms, modeling rooms, chemical and physical laboratories, mineralogical observatory, etc., and supporting 51 Professors. The Trades' College is presided over by the first architect of Germany, assisted by 28 able Professors. The tuition is merely nominal. Then there are in England the Royal Polytechnic Institution and the South Kensington Museum, with its vast collection of models and works of art; and in Ireland, the Royal College of Science, established in 1867.

Precedents are too numerous to include in an article of this nature, intended as it is merely to call attention to the subject. The general intelligence of this community needs only the intimation to fully appreciate the necessity of such institutions,—and the beneficial results to be derived therefrom in perfecting their own knowledge and in educating the young. As a location for an Industrial University, Pittsburgh possesses peculiar advantages. Here with slight effort the student may inspect in full operation ACTUAL MACHINES (not models alone), of the best construction, of varying form and with different modes of action, applied to manufacturing (as said by a Pittsburgh writer,) "countless articles, from the commonplace trifles in domestic use to the grandest and most beautiful achievements of human ingenuity and art."

THERE WILL BE

No Fees Levied or Contributions Collected

At this meeting in aid of the establishment of this institution, the public being invited to discuss "the object" in view, and thereby to enlist public sympathy and favor in its behalf. The financial plan proposed for carrying out the undertaking, is to hold, during the coming season, under the auspices of the Institute, a Grand Pittsburgh Exposition!

And to continue them annually thereafter.

The immense pecuniary success latterly of these exhibitions of industrial enterprise renders a similar success here undoubted. The English annual fairs of Manchester, Birmingham and other manufacturing towns have long been proverbially "the occasion" of their several localities. In this country, during the last season, the many expositions have, without a single exception, proved exceedingly remunerative, drawing thousands of visitors, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago, Philadelphia, Nashville, Louisville, Newark, N. J., Evansville, Ind., Memphis, and other cities of the Union where they have been held, are now, through their daily papers, rejoicing over the material results directly and indirectly derived from these institutions by their respective cities. The Secretary of the Inter-State Industrial Exposition of Chicago, in his last report, says: "Every transportation line, every hotel, and every retailer felt the favorable influence of the last Exposition. The entire capacity of our hotels, immense as it was, was called into requisition for the first time. Our retail business houses were thronged day after day, and our railway accommodations were taxed to their utmost. Besides, the direct benefit to every exhibitor in making sales, taking orders, and extending his acquaintance was very remarkable." The receipts of the Exhibition just closed amounted to $124,000. The Exposition Company now possess property, with improvements, fixtures, &c., which cost $325,000, of which $141,000 has been realized in eighteen months from the net receipts of two Exhibitions. In Cincinnati the admission reported this year of 280,000 people aggregated $70,000, and it is estimated that the visitors from out of the city, attracted by the Exhibition, spent $855,000 with their storekeepers, hotels, etc. In 1873, at the St. Louis Fair, over $29,000 was received at the gates on the "Big Thursday of the exhibition. The Fair there of this season was a still greater success, but we have not the figures. Even Evansville, Ind., with a population of but 20,000, held an Exhibition last season, and its six days' receipts amounted to $16,265.95.

Pittsburgh, on account of its comparative advantage in the matter of fuel, which, so to speak, constitutes the source of all industrial wealth, has not felt the necessity of that excited energy, business activity and enterprise which characterizes other manufacturing localities less favored by their natural position. To quote again from a Pittsburgh writer, "Pittsburgh, it has often been said, is the worst advertised city in the Union. Its light has been hid under the bushel of its conservatism. Our great manufacturing and commercial houses have sought obscurity rather than mercantile or business notoriety. * * * * * * * The simple art of letting people know what is being done and could be done has been brought into requisition with magnificent results by cities—great cities now—that were rocking in their civic cradles when Pittsburgh had achieved the highest honors of municipal dignity."

A lifeless inertia will in time scatter to the winds the most propitious conditions. While other cities are vaunting the products of their skill to the world, let Pittsburgh join the array, and, as she well can do by comparison, expose the imperfection of much of the other displays by the excellence of her own workmanship. But, in doing so, let us fully enter with the enthusiastic spirit of modern enterprise, remembering that

"A great general sets his army in array
In vain, unless he fight and win the day."

GENERAL BANKS, a friend of his declares, will not be a candidate for the Speakership of the House of Congress.

A VERY extensive snow storm is prevailing at the Northwest. In Chicago, snow has fallen to the depth of several inches.

THE Treasury clerks in Washington who have been in the habit of visiting gambling dens, have been discharged. Right enough.

BROOKVILLE has again been visited by a destructive fire, which has destroyed over $200,000 of property,—a severe loss to a town of its size.

THE Arkansas troubles are quite sure to be remanded to the attention of Congress. Judge Poland has been giving the subject attention, but the evidence gathered is not in a compact shape, and cannot be analyzed for several days to come.

THE dealers in china, glass and earthenware, in New York, are arranging to urge on the attention of Congress the importance of changing from ad valorem to specific duties on articles of the trade. Whether they aim at increased or reduced duties is not clear.

THE rains have at last made an impression on the rivers, and hopes are now beginning to be entertained of a coal rise. There are about thirteen million bushels of coal awaiting shipment, and this once at the markets down the river, we will have an ingathering of funds that will be very acceptable to those in the coal trade.

THE District of Columbia Commissioners propose to divide the School funds pro rata and thus secure separate schools for white and black, rather than have mixed schools. All this is right and proper, particularly as the colored people cheerfully agree to it, and the plan is not a violation of the yet pending Civil Rights bill.

IT seems entirely clear that Gladstone fully realized the scope of the controversy with Manning when he issued his pamphlet. So far from being intimidated, or even daunted by the assaults made, he holds his position with manful vigor, and proposes to continue the controversy. He does not accept mass-meeting definitions of dogmas.

INTELLIGENCE from the anthracite region indicates that the "Mollie Maguires" have broken loose and are committing terrible atrocities. The arrest of Dougherty, one of their leaders, seems to have unusually excited the band. It is evident that severe measures of repression must be resorted to in order to avoid wholesale crimes by this terrible band.

ANOTHER letter has been received by the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, from Hon. James G. Brisban, urging larger and continued contributions to the aid of the sufferers in Nebraska. In response to a request from Captain Holloway, President of the Chamber, the Secretary of War has decided to appropriate a quantity of Government clothing, now at Jeffersonville, Indiana, for the relief of the sufferers.

TOM HOOD, the editor of Fun, in London, is dead. The position of editor on publications like Punch and Fun has an importance that cannot be estimated or understood in this country. The system of ridiculing or lampooning the public, politicians, members of Government, and the like is recognized in England as of great influence and importance. Yet to American readers Punch and Fun are stupid publications, and we doubt if they could be supported in this country. Yet they wield large influence in public affairs in England. The sayings of Punch are quoted almost as respectfully as are those of the Times, and often wield as great power over public opinion as do those of the Times. Thus Hood filled a very important position, and his death will be felt as a serious loss in English literary circles.

THEY have a happy-go-lucky way of dealing with unpleasant subjects in New York, which is something in advance of what has been reached in this very remarkable city of ours. On election day, a man named McKenna was shot at the polls, and Croker, his murderer, was arrested. But a brief investigation, in which the directest testimony was given, only resulted in Croker being let loose. The dying man testified that Croker shot him; others affirmed that they saw him do it. The man died, but Croker marched around from one saloon to another, the protege of Kelly, who is supposed to be the later Tweed. The Democratic papers treated the subject with dignified silence; but other papers made such a time over it that Croker has again been arrested, and now the "organs" have before them the difficult task of manufacturing sentiment favorable to the innocence of the accused Croker; and right vigorously does the virtuous World address itself to the task. In stately and polished sentences it refers to the "unfortunate affair" as one that is so confusing as "to invalidate the testimony of the participants." Exactly. We have known Democratic papers to get down to very small business, but this of making sentiment in behalf of a murderer is the lowest yet.

THE sale of a portion of James Lick's estate, in San Francisco, realized the very handsome sum of $2,000,000—sufficient to give effect to the specific objects of the deed of trust issued by him. Mr. Lick is a native of Fredericksburg, in this State, and learned piano making in Philadelphia. When young, he went to South America, where he prospered moderately in business. When the California gold discoveries were made, he sold out his business in Peru and went to San Francisco with $30,000 in his possession. With this money he proceeded to purchase real estate, when San Francisco was a mere struggling village. When the city began rapidly to grow, wealth, of course, rolled in upon him in great abundance. He is now seventy-eight years old, and preferring to see that his wealth is rightly applied, he has appointed seven trustees, to whom he has made a deed of trust, providing that $700,000 shall be used to purchase and erect a telescope more powerful than any ever yet made, on the borders of Lake Tahoe, or elsewhere in California. $300,000 are to be used to found and endow the "California School of Mechanical Arts," for males and females. $250,000 are to be spent on a monument to commemorate the history of California, and $150,000 are devoted to a monument to Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner." $150,000 are for free baths in San Francisco, and $100,000 for a home for old ladies in poverty. These are the principal items. He gives but little to his relatives.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

With the coming together of Congress, we will probably have a renewal of the struggle for a reduction of the volume of currency. Such is the purport of the rumors that come to hand, from time to time. The President is accredited with a purpose to recommend the restoration of specie payments by law, and while the desire to have specie payments resumed is well enough, the method is open to criticism. We hope all recommendations to reduce the volume of currency will be resisted, and all attempts to interfere with the existing circulation will be put aside. There is just one thing that Congress might wisely do as regards the currency,—make banking free, and then stop. But once the subject is up we fear that a long and useless struggle will follow, and rather than this, we would have nothing done. There are many reasons why nothing should be done, rather than that the volume should be reduced. Among these, the fact that the next House will be Democratic affords a reason why no merely experimental legislation should be resorted to. Any scheme looking to the restoration of specie payments by a mere legal enactment will be of the nature of an experiment. All such legislation will probably be swept from the statute books in a brief time.

Chiefly, however, circumstances do not afford the data for an accurate judgment as to the amount of currency the country may need, ere long. Before the panic, there was great need of additional currency because of the expansion of the business of the country; but with the reduction of business, consequent on the panic, the demand has largely fallen off. Should business revive in the Spring, this demand will increase again, and we will need all the currency we have, and more. The New York Bulletin, a financial journal of high standing, says, speaking of the redundancy of currency now, "it answers well enough for the requirements of the moment; and that is all that nine-tenths of the people care for. We observe, however, in some quarters a disposition to draw very unwarrantable conclusions from the present easy working of our financial arrangements. Some point to the prevailing ease as an evidence that the late public demand for currency and banking reform was without any real occasion. They also instance the surrender of circulation by certain banks and large redemptions of bank notes at Washington, as evidence that there is an important redundancy of circulation. This redundancy, however, is due to the temporary causes growing out of the panic above alluded to; and affords no reason whatever for supposing that the supply of notes will exceed the public requirements when trade recovers its normal activity. On the contrary, when business revives, we shall find a quick renewal of the complaints of stringency and of the inadequacy of the supply of currency for meeting the wants of the crop movements." We add to this quotation another of a few lines, to show that the Bulletin is not opposed to specie payments, and is not, therefore, an inflationist paper: "The first work of the coming Congress should therefore be to prepare the way for the resumption of specie payments and to establish free banking, with the least possible disturbance of the existing status of the legal tender circulation."

The great point to be looked after, in restoring the prosperity of the country, is the development of our resources, and whatever condition of currency will best contribute to this, is most adapted to the well being of the people. That specie payments—or a basis of specie for currency circulation at par, most nearly meets this condition, none can deny. Hence this is the ultimate end to be sought; but in what way, is the question that involves differences of opinion. The attempt to compel specie payments, by limiting the volume of currency, will chiefly serve to paralyze the industries of the country, and thus hinder the very result that is aimed at. We are fully convinced, therefore, that the best policy is that which will leave the volume of currency unchanged, except so far as free banking may affect it. The increase of productions, in produce, manufactures and minerals will then, we believe, continue the exact relation that now exists, as regards the trade between this country and Europe. We have been, for months past, gathering back our bonds from Europe, and yet have not been exporting gold in large amounts. If we may develop our internal commerce, and bring out our resources, we shall be on the road to specie payments, whether legislation is had to that end or not.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

THOMAS HOOD, editor of the London Fun, is dead.

THE Sutro Tunnel in Nevada has reached a length of over a mile and a half.

THE brig "Anna Maria" has arrived at Boston, from Malaga, with a cargo of raisins for Chicago.

ISAAC BUTTS, many years editor of the Rochester (N. Y.) Union and Advertiser, died on Friday morning.

AN Englishman has just bought at Bordeaux, for 1,800 francs, three bottles of Medoc wine, of the year 1793—$120 a bottle.

A DEFEATED Chicago candidate says the opposition charged him, among other things, with sheep stealing, and proved it, too.

SAN FRANCISCO has two hundred Chinese gambling-houses, which are described by the somewhat incongruous title of "Celestial hells."

CHICAGO is trying a new style of omnibus, having the entrance on the side; but the passengers are just as crowded and miserable as they were before.

THE round-house of the Cairo & St. Louis Narrow Gauge Railroad, in East St. Louis, with one locomotive, was burned on Thursday night. Loss $10,000; no insurance.

IN Montreal, on Wednesday evening, an excise officer was badly beaten by two restaurant keepers. On Thursday morning another officer encountered the same persons, and when attacked by them, stabbed one of them fatally.

AND now the head of the family, returning home from his "club" through the sharp midnight air, gently rolls his sleeping spouse over to the cold side of the bed, and sinks softly into the vacated spot with a sigh of thankfulness.

IN consequence of the appearance of counterfeits, deliveries of Chicago & Northwestern Railway first mortgage seven per cent. coupon bonds, dated July 1st, 1859, and payable August 1st, 1885, must be bonds registered in a name and not to bearer, as heretofore, at the New York Stock Exchange.

A TOMBSTONE at Saratoga lifts up a warning voice to single women in the following manner: "Emma, dau'r of Abraham and Matilda C——, and wife of Theodore S——, died August 10, 1868, Æ. 26 yrs, leaving five children—married too young against her father's will. Single women, take warning."

THE Belgian journals mention the death at the age of ten years and eleven months, of Frederick Van de Kerkhove, a young painter of almost miraculous precocity. He was a native of Bruges, and had executed not less than three hundred and fifty pictures. It has been proposed that there should be a public exhibition of his works.

A PIGEON MATCH was shot on Thursday on the Lorillard estate, near Islip, Long Island, between Carroll Livingston, of New York, and Richard Peters, of Philadelphia. The match was for $500 a side, at fifty pigeons each, thirty yards rise and eighty yards boundary. Livingston won, killing thirty-three pigeons to Peters' twenty-nine.

THE Convention of coffin manufacturers of the West, which had been in session in Cincinnati, terminated last Thursday night. The time has been occupied in the discussion of matters of common interest to the trade, and in social intercourse. After the election of W. Wettach, of Allegheny, Pa., as President, and N. H. Dill, of Richmond, Ind., as Vice President, the Convention adjourned to meet in Pittsburgh in June next.

THE disorder known as hay-fever appears to have received its name on the lucus-a-non-lucendo principle, because it can be produced by sunlight, cinders, close air, wormwood, and over exertion, as well as by hay and some twenty other causes. Dr. Beard says it is a complex and not a simple disease, as has been generally supposed, and "its first element is a nervo-bilious temperament, or at least a temperament in which the nervous element predominates."

THE Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel Association says that the Imperial Palace of St. Petersburg is to be refitted with chandeliers, fixtures and brackets from this country. American axes cut a name for themselves in Europe some years ago and time does not seem to have effaced the mark they made. An order for five thousand axes for Norway was recently received by an American manufacturer, who also received an order for the same number to be shipped to South America.

JOTTINGS FROM SMITHFIELD, PA.

The Town and Its Situation—Reflections Concerning the Election—The Weather, &c.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

SMITHFIELD, PA., Nov. 18, 1874.

"To be out of fashion," to use a familiar expression, "is to be out of the world;" and in this wonderful and progressive age, when journalism has reached such a stage of perfection, and newspaper corresponding become fashionable, we might say that to be out of print, slightly perverting the aphorism, is to be out of the world. An inordinate desire to be fashionable—to live in the prevailing mode and to be fully up to the spirit of the times in all secular matter is the great motive power that moves the active business world, while style and fashion are twin gods in the theogony of the modern beau and belle. With them the beaumonde is the great desideratum—the cynosure around which clusters all that is lovely or beautiful, and in which they live, move and have their being. We are not an ardent devotee of fashion, in the common acceptation of the term, and do not write with a view of being "fashionable." Neither, on the other hand, are we prepared to accept the extravagance of "Jenny June," or some one else, "that fashion is destitute of brains."

But it was the idea that a few notes from this section of the Keystone State might be of interest to the readers of the old GAZETTE here that induced me to take up the quill to chronicle a few jottings from the ancient town of Smithfield.

This town is situated about 9 (nine) miles south of Uniontown, the county seat of Fayette county, being on the direct route to Morgantown, West Virginia, and about sixteen miles from the latter place. It is one of considerable thrift and business enterprise, for an inland town. The people are industrious and intelligent, and enjoy the peace—fruits of their frugal industry. We have prosperous churches, and a flourishing school, George Creek Academy, under the principalship of Prof. C. A. Gilbert, late of Reid Institute, Clarion county, Pa., who is well known throughout this part of the State, as a thorough educator and a teacher of very high standing.

The valley of George Creek, along the base of the mountain, until its confluence with the Monongahela river, 6 (six) miles west of this place, is one of vast agricultural and mineral wealth, and only awaits the completion of a railroad here to develop it, and open us up to the outside business world. If wealth and accessibility of route are any consideration, this district of country certainly presents inducements sufficient to entice a railroad company through it. Our people are living in happy anticipation that the South West Pennsylvania R. R., now in process of construction to Uniontown, will ere long be completed to Smithfield.

passed off quietly here, with but little interest, except on the local ticket. The contest for Assembly and Sheriff was rather exciting. A good deal of scratching was done, but chiefly on the Republican side, affording another demonstration of the fact that Democrats will stick tenaciously to the whole ticket, and it matters little whether that ticket be composed of honest, capable men, or whether they be political tricksters, reeking with corruption. In the late contest here, where a Republican did not come up to the standard of fitness, according to the Republican idea, he was "scratched," but the Democrats went almost a unit for the nominations, and the result was the usual Democratic majority. Dr. Mathiot, Republican candidate for Assembly, and James Abraham, candidate for Sheriff, residents of our town, are both men of unexceptionable character, men of integrity and high moral standing, but had heavy odds to encounter, and the Democracy, with true Democratic consistency, went almost solid for their ticket, and the above gentlemen were defeated, while others were elected, some of whom have rather unsavory records. But so it is. Democrats as a rule, will sacrifice everything for party. Temperance, and every other measure of reform must succumb to the base ties of party allegiance.

But, can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the Leopard his spots? Ignoring party considerations, and voting for pure and honest men, seems to be a political feat of which our friends of the Democratic persuasion are not capable. They are very jubilant over their recent achievement, and we advise them to dilate and feel good, as Democratic victories, of a national character, are rare occurrences now-a-days.

We would caution them, however, not to delude themselves by construing their late victory as an assurance of future success. The present reverse will work out its legitimate and desired end, and then,

> "Since so soon I am done for
> I wonder what I was begun for;"

will be the doleful dirge of the Democratic party at the next general election.

The Weather.

During the past two weeks we have been having beautiful Indian summer, but at present it seems to be about at an end, and soon we may experience Borea's chilly blasts.

EAST FAIRFIELD.

A Quiet Rural Town—Thrift and Happiness—Productive Farms and Contented People—A Quaker Settlement.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

EAST FAIRFIELD, COLUMBIANA CO., November 17, 1874.

A sequestered, rural town, bearing the above name, and containing about two hundred inhabitants, is found about two miles from New Waterford, which is the nearest station on the P., Ft. W. & C. R. R. The land around is diversified with hills and dales, and is very productive in fruit and cereals. Some of the best of apple and peach orchards are here found. Grapes are also raised in abundance. And many of the farmers are extensive wool growers. Though the place is somewhat secluded from thoroughfares by which news is daily obtained from all parts of the nation, yet there are reading people here who keep up acquaintance with the GAZETTE. And many of them take agricultural journals.

The town has an antiquated appearance, yet it is a place where the people live comfortably and partake of many of the good things of life. Such financial troubles as often vex the city folks, have but a moderate bearing here, because the first necessaries of life are abundantly produced in the immediate vicinity. The houses are old fashioned, and in their construction, comfort and convenience have been studied more than the modern style of ornamentation.

About a mile north of this town is a Quaker settlement known by the name of Middleton. It is one of the first places in Ohio, where people of that denomination settled. At present they are not so numerous as they were years ago. The time has been when their form of worship their principles, and their customs gave a distinctive character to the place. Some of them were rigid and ascetic in their doctrine and practice; yet places having a more complete reign of peace, where a better type of Christian morality was to be found, and where there was a closer observance of the social virtues, are now but seldom to be found. They knew but little of the turmoil of the world outside of their domain, and by a diligent attention to their own concerns secured to themselves happiness and prosperity. Their "first day" and "fourth day" meetings, in which their quaint form of silent worship was observed, also gave them opportunities to exchange greetings, and to offer cordial congratulations on health and welfare. The transient guest always received a hearty welcome to their homes. Among themselves they were by no means chary of social visits, and by these a very agreeable acquaintance with all their neighbors was maintained. But now times are changed. Most of the older ones have died, some of the younger have gone to the west, some have gone to the world, but some of the substantial ones remain, whose modes of life link the past with the present, and indicate the stock from which they have descended.

Keeping Winter Apples.

A member of the Michigan Pomological Society stated, at a late Adrian meeting, that he was very successful in keeping winter apples, and had secured sound, fresh fruit in May, by the following treatment: He picks the fruit in October, and places it in heaps in the orchards and covers them with hay. These heaps remain untouched until December, the slight moisture of the earth; and the few inches of hay preventing any injury to the apples, even during sharp freezes. They are then assorted and packed in barrels, which, after heading up, are placed in a cold cellar, which is kept at a temperature of about thirty-two degrees, and if it should happen to be a few degrees lower for a short time, the protection of the barrels will prevent any injury. They come out sound in the Spring.

A Mistake in Pork-Making.

At this season of the year two-thirds of the farmers make a great mistake. They sell all their old hogs, and then they shut up their best pigs to make pork for their own use. They should keep two or three old hogs, or more, as the case might be, for their own use, or fat their poorest pigs for their own use. Of course they will not get as many pounds of pork as they would if they had fatted the best, but in the end there is more money made by it. Allowing that they made five pounds of pork less on a hog by fatting the poorest in the lot, in the end he would be from fifty to seventy-five pounds ahead; that is, if there be a difference of a pound or two between two pigs this fall, there will be by next fall a difference of from fifty to seventy-five pounds.—Western Rural.

Italian Bees Cross.

W. M. Kellogg handles a good many stocks of bees, and says, "When you come to extracting, give us the hybrids or blacks in preference to the Italians every time. The Italians stick like burs, are harder to get off and take more time, while the blacks and hybrids are on the run for dear life and are easily jerked off, and the few remaining it is short work to get off. The worst stinging we have had this summer has been by the Italians.

Keeping Onions.

The London Garden says, that when the Cheshire market gardeners wish to keep their onions for an unusual length of time they nail them in bundles on the outside of the house, and in this way, slightly protected from wet by the eaves, they keep, on an average, five weeks longer than those of the same varieties and of the same crop, stored in the ordinary manner.

CHERRY TREE, PA.

Political Postings—Business Prospects—The Schools—Growth of the Village.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

CHERRY TREE, PA., Nov. 19, 1874.

POLITICS.

The Democrats are very jubilant over the recent elections. It is so long since they have had a victory, and this came so unexpectedly, that they are surprised and overjoyed. Well, if they do no better than in former years, it will not require a long time for every "sorehead" and dissatisfied Republicans to get tired of them and vote them to "back seats," where they have been during the last fourteen years, and should have been kept, in justice, for the next fourteen years, or until all the issues growing out of their rebellion were permanently settled, and the rebels dead and buried.

ALL SORTS.

The fine weather which which we have been favored for several weeks still continues. The roads are in excellent condition, crops have been gathered, pasture is pretty good, the pigs are fatted on nuts, farmers are plowing for spring crops, timber making has commenced in earnest, and we have every material good except money—it is scarce.

MERCHANDIZING.

Our merchants have bought their winter supplies, and are selling as rapidly as is safe for people to buy considering the times.

THE SCHOOLS

both in town and country have commenced their winter work. Singing teachers have also commenced operations in their business.

OUR CHURCHES.

Protracted nightly service is the order of the churches, with about the usual success.

OUR VILLAGE

is growing some. Several new dwellings are on the way, and several old ones have been overhauled, remodeled, etc., during summer and autumn. Several properties have changed hands during the last few months. One of our hotels is unoccupied at present—a good opening for any one who wishes to pursue that calling.

BEAVER FALLS, PA.

Flourishing Public Schools—Prosperity Among the Churches—Business Prospects.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., November 18, 1874.

The business of our town is moving on rather smoothly at present. Our manufacturers and those in their employ seem to have a good share of the compromise inclination, hence if time is shortened or wages reduced a little, there is no great ado about it. Both classes are bearing the continued pressure as patiently as possible.

Churches.

There was a large and interesting jubilee in the M. E. church yesterday afternoon. The room was filled to its utmost capacity. The Superintendent, Mr. Gallagher, conducted the exercises, which were both interesting and successful.

The Episcopal church is well on the way, and will be ready to occupy, perhaps, by Christmas, if the weather remains fair. When completed it will be a beautiful little church of the Gothic style.

Public School.

Our public school is moving on smoothly and successfully under the former principal, Miss Forbes. There are ten rooms containing in all six hundred and thirty scholars. The teachers are the same as taught during the former session, and are such as our citizens may justly feel proud of.

THE LATE ELECTIONS.

What a Minister Thinks—The Party Still as Strong as Before—A Defeat That is not a Defeat.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

Now that the smoke of the battle has cleared away, and the field of conflict is exposed to view, we may begin, in a dispassioned way, to compute results. We are not disposed to under-estimate the disaster that has overtaken the Republican party, but already we see enough to convince us that it is greater in appearance than in reality.

The Republican party has been from its birth the party of moral ideas, as distinguished from mere political ideas. It was gathered and moulded and mixed together more by the conscience of the people, rather than by the force of economical or commercial ideas, and its moral convictions have hitherto been its main strength in its great achievements. This strength, however, had come to be frittered away, not that these convictions were passing from the minds of the people, but that they were failing to find recognition and expression, in the party organization and leadership. And just here is the philosophy of what has transpired through the ballot box. The people are as they have been, unchanged. They retain their convictions. And they have said with an emphasis which has spread terror among corruptionists, that they will be obeyed, not ruled, by their public servants. They have shown this independence of principle, as against party and against policy, and this in essence and in spirit and in power is the Republicanism of the past. No harm has come to the moral life of the party, but that life itself has made a vigorous protest against the untruthfulness and corruption of the outward form.

The duty of the hour is therefore plain but the convictions of the people become supreme, and let them bring back the party in its organization and management to be as it has been, a party of principle whose main strength is in its heritage of moral power. Thus shall the scattered forces be reunited and the grand army in solid column shall move on to new conquests.

If such a re-adjustment shall be the result of what has taken place more will have been gained than lost in the defeat. But if the Republican party shall continue untrue to itself and disregarding the moral convictions of the upright masses who have hitherto composed it, it shall become a mere scrambler for political power, then the existing disaffection will become crystalized and the days of the party will be numbered.

MAY AND DECEMBER.

Thou darking cloud, melt—melt away:
Thy threatening front ill suits the day;
My darling to my soul did say,
"For evermore I'm thine."
Away! and come that day or night,
With quick forked flashes, dread bedight,
When I her blooming love shall slight,
Or mine from her's unwine

Ye angry winds, stay your wild course,—
Your wrath missuits the law's resource;
That grants my soul a full divorce,
For never more she's mine.
Stay, stay! but rouse ye that fell hour,
And vengeful o'er the struck earth scour,
When I court woman's love or dower,
Or her's with mine entwine.

FINANCIAL.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, November 21, 1874.

Yesterday was rather a quiet day in financial circles, the demand at the banks being rather light and but little business was done in other departments of business. Street brokerage is pretty nearly a thing of the past. Where paper will not go at the banks, amply provided as they are with loanable funds, it is considered, as a rule, unsafe to deal in them in the way of outside operations. In mortgage and other such investments there seems to be a general tendency to deal with first hands. In the way of real estate business, other than mortgages, very little is being done. In may parts of the city, improved real estate is quite strongly held, and unimproved, or undesirable real estate, is not saleable at any reasonable price. Thus we are likely to stay during the winter. What the spring will bring forth it is hard to say.

A few days ago we mentioned that great changes in the organization of business houses in New York city were expected within the next two months. Many of the old firms will be dissolved and new ones formed. In the dry goods trade especially the changes are expected to be very great. The New York Dry Goods Reporter estimates that the amount of capital thus changed will represent interests the aggregate amount of $25,000,000. The first notable change in this line of which we hear is the dissolution of the well known dry goods house of Peake, Opdycke & Co., and the new relations which the gentlemen composing it will assume on the 1st of January next. Mr. Peake becomes a member of the firm of Eldredge, Evans, Peake & Co., which will continue in the general dry goods trade. Mr. Peake is known to buyers in every State in the Union. "This new house," says the New York Express, "we especially particularize as one that will merit and receive the confidence of the whole mercantile community." Messrs. Opdycke and Terry, who have hitherto been members of the firm of Peake, Opdycke & Co., will go into a new firm, to be known as Opdycke, Terry & Steele, and engage in the "white goods" business.

—The receiver of the Bank of the Commonwealth, New York, which failed September 20 of last year, announces the final payment of 20 per cent. to depositors and all other creditors except shareholders on the 20th instant, 80 per cent. having been previously paid. This is another proof of the safety to general creditors of the national bank system. There can scarcely be loss to others than the stockholders, a fact calculated to make them vigilant.

—The decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, rendered on Monday in the important suit of the State of Missouri against the Missouri Pacific Railroad, ends the long litigation in favor of the railroad company. The title of the rest of the Missouri railroads was involved in the suit. The Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company control the Missouri Pacific line under lease, and pay the shareholders five per cent. per annum in quarterly payments.

—The Union and Central Pacific Railroad Companies will now receive the reserved half of their land grants, the roads having been pronounced complete.

—From a published list of business changes in New York in the past week, it appears that there were thirty-three failures. Of these nine houses closed by execution, four made assignments, two have gone into bankruptcy, one fled and several are attempting to compromise with creditors.

Sterling was strong at 485½@486 for sixty days and 490@490½ for sight. The imports of dry goods for the week were $1,227,147. The customs receipts were $241,000. Gold was strong, opening at 111½, and closing at 111⅝. The carrying rates were 1@3; borrowing flat. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $479,000. The clearings were $39,000,000. The shipments of specie for to-morrow are estimated at $500,000. Government bonds are active and higher. Railroad bonds are quiet and steady. State bonds were dull and strong. Stocks were dull and weak at the opening, and prices declined ⅛@½, but shortly after a full recovery to opening prices took place. During the afternoon the market was heavy. At the close prices declined to the lowest point of the day. The decline ranged from ¼ to ½, and was most marked in Lake Shore, Northwestern common, and Wabash. The sales to-day aggregated 136,000 shares, of which 9,000 were Western Union, 9,000 Pacific Mail, 41,000 Lake Shore, 21,000 Union Pacific, 18,000 Northwestern common, 8,000 St. Paul common, 6,000 Wabash, and 7,000 Ohios.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

PITTSBURGH DAILY MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, Nov. 20, 1874.

The leading merchandise markets continue quiet, and while perhaps trade is about all that can reasonable be expected, it is not what it usually is or should be at this season of the year. The demand for all the leading staples continues light, confined entirely to supplying immediate necessities, and the indications are that the hand-to-mouth policy will be pretty closely adhered to during the balance of the year. The grain markets continue very firm, under the influence of the recent sharp advance in the west, together with diminished receipts, and the probability is that prices will go still higher. The hog product continues firm and somewhat excited, with a continued upward tendency. In general produce business is only fair, and the markets are devoid of anything important.

APPLES—Continue to come in freely and the market is dull; quotable, in a jobbing way, $1,50 to $2,50 ₱ bbl.

APPLE BUTTER—In kegs, 60 to 65c.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—3½@4c ₱ ℔.

BEANS—Dull; $1,90@2,25 ₱ bush.

BUTTER—Prime to choice roll is quoted at 27@30, and medium to good, 20@25. Both the New York and Philadelphia markets are reported better for good stock, but our market is almost bare of this kind.

CHEESE—The market continues quiet, but prices are fully sustained; we continue to quote, in a jobbing way, at 16½@17 for Ohio and 17½@18 for New York Factory.

CRANBERRIES—$10@14 ₱ bbl.

DRIED FRUIT—The demand continues exceedingly light, and there is scarcely enough doing as yet to establish rates.

EGGS—The supply of fresh, guaranteed as such, continues light, although it is fully equal to the demand, and prices remain as last quoted—28@29c. Pickled Eggs in good supply, and the receipts continue to increase, 20@25.

FLOUR—Trade in our market continues to drag, and there is but little prospect of it improving much; prices unchanged. We continue to quote Spring wheat flours, $5,75@6 for Wisconsin's and $6,00@6,25 for Minnesotas; winters, $6,00@6,25 for red and $6,50@7 for white. Rye Flour, $5,50@5,75.

GROCERIES—Coffee has quieted down slightly at the seaboard within the past 48 hours, but prices are up fully half a cent within the past week, and the stock in first hands continues light. Sugars continue easy, and while there has been no quotable decline within the past two or three days, the tendency is downward. Molasses has advanced 3@4c ₱ gallon at New Orleans during the past day or two, and the market is firm at the advance. Syrups continue dull.

GRAIN—There was a very full attendance at the Corn and Produce Exchange this morning, caused no doubt by the scarcity of grain and a stiffening of the markets, and there was considerable business transacted. Wheat, as noted in our last report, is more inquired for, and with but little offering, prices are a shade better; red may be quoted at $1,14@1,17, and amber and white at $1,20@1,22. The Oat market continues very firm, and prices have further advanced; good mixed quotable at 61@62c, and prime white at 63 to 64. Corn is in demand and limited supply, and prices are still tending upward; new ear quotable at 70 to 73 and new shelled at 73 to 75, according to quality. Rye is in light supply, but there does not appear to be much inquiry for it. Sales of Fall Barley at $1,40; No 2 Spring cannot be laid down here from Chicago under $1,43 to 1,45. The following sales were made on 'Change:

3 cars white western Oats, in elevator	64
1 car white Oats in sacks, to arrive	63½
1 car inferior Oats	60
1 car new ear Corn	73
1 car new shelled Corn	75
1 car seconds	$1,05

HAY—The market for baled continues firm, in consequence of the light receipts for some time past, but as yet there is no quotable improvement in prices; $18 to $23 ₱ ton, on track, by the car load, according to quality. Loose is selling from country wagons at $25@30. Oat Straw, baled, by the car load, $15@16.

PROVISIONS—The general tone of the market for the hog product continues firm, although there is no question but what the trade generally are apprehensive in regard to the future, as prices are almost double what they were as compared with this time last year; however, the product is not any too high taking the cost of hogs into consideration. We incline to the belief that the trade generally will incline to keep close to shore during the next thirty, perhaps sixty days.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET—WEEKLY REVIEW.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, Nov. 20, 1874.

PIG IRON.

There has been so much said in regard to the pig iron trade recently that there is little or nothing to be added that is of any importance or to which reference has not already been made. Business continues very dull, the demand is still restricted entirely to supplying immediate wants, as there is nothing in the present condition of affairs to induce consumers to stock up; there is no indication just now of an advance in prices, and, in addition, unless the puddlers accede to a reduction in wages, a general suspension before long is not improbable. As compared with last week, there has been no quotable decline, but the general tone and spirit of the market continues in buyer's favor, and this, as already intimated, accounts for the fact that they are refusing to buy any more than is absolutely necessary. Following sales were reported:

MANUFACTURED IRON.

Trade in all kinds of finished irons, while it is by no means active, is about all that can reasonably be expected; the mills, with one or two exceptions, are still in operation, but some of them have changed recently from double to single turn, and there is not much doubt but that trade will be slack during the balance of the year. However, the great source of complaint is not so much in regard to a scarcity of orders as it is in regard to prices, which it is claimed are down to a point now that affords little or no margin for profit, but, in case the puddlers accede to the reduction in wages, manufacturers will fight their way through, and keep their mills in operation.

NAILS.

The Nail trade continues very quiet, as it usually is at this season of the year, but prices, however, are fully maintained, and we continue to quote at $3,35, sixty days, with usual discount of two per cent. for cash.

SCRAP IRON.

There is no improvement to note in the scrap trade, nor is it likely that there will be soon; indeed, it appears to be getting worse and worse instead of better, and dealers do not expect much business until January, perhaps February. Prices are entirely nominal.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, Nov. 20, 1874.

The Crude market was reported steady at 72½ bid and 73¾ asked for immediate shipment, at Parker. The receipts by rail yesterday were unusually heavy, aggregating over 8,000 bbls, and if the river should become navigable, of which the prospects are favorable, at this writing, there will be a large quantity brought down in bulk barges. There is no movement in refined of any consequence, and the market continues dull, and prices are nominally unchanged: New York delivery, 10¾; Philadelphia, 10⅝; and Baltimore, 10½. Sales could probably be effected at quotations, but there is little or no margin for profit, as even 10½, delivered in Baltimore, is only equal to about 7¾c here, which would not much more than cover cost, even if the crude article was thrown in free. However, the trade is getting into better shape, and it is hoped and expected that when business does open up the facilities as regards transportation, a very important matter, will be more satisfactory.

The Barrel trade continues very dull, and prices nominally unchanged; countries, 1,30; city make, $1 40.

IRON MARKETS.

Reports from New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia and England.

NEW YORK—American Pig.—There is nothing new in the market. The demand seems to be less than last week, and the disposition to press sales is, we think, more strongly marked than it has been for a long time. The companies seem disposed to sell a good customer even at low prices, rather than let him go elsewhere. We hear of no large sales this week, business being confined to retail lots. We quote Foundry No. 1, $27; Foundry No. 2, $25@26; Gray Forge, $23@24. The Crane Iron Co. have denied, both to us and to others, the truth of the report of a sale of their No 1 Foundry Iron at a price equal to $25.75 at Hoboken, published by us last week. They say in one of their letters to us, that they "have sold a pipe concern recently 1000 tons No 1 Extra Crane Iron, but the price was $25 per ton at Catasauqua on our furnace bank." This may be another transaction. Our information is explicit, and from a source we cannot doubt, that they sold a pipe concern 1015 tons No 1 Extra Iron on their furnace bank for $24,000, cash, which, we are informed, is equal to $25.74 at Hoboken. Bar.—There is no change since last week. We still quote 3.8 for Eastern mills.—Iron Age.

PHILADELPHIA—Trade continues without vitality in Pig metal, and prices are as low or lower than at any time since the panic. The fact that so many furnaces continue blowing at the very low price for Iron seems to astonish everyone. The mills, in the unsettled condition of prices, will not naturally buy in larger quantity than is absolutely necessary; and each expects to get Iron lower than at the previous purchase. Hence the extraordinary condition of trade, which no one seems able to explain. In Bars there is very little doing, with a continuance of the cutting in prices from the West, and sales here made to suit these prices. In Rails there is more movement than in any other branch of trade, but scarcely as much as noted for the two weeks previous. We hear of some negotiations for Steel, however, which are of considerable amount, and it is certain that there are more inquiries for Iron Rails than there have been for some time. Prices in every grade of Iron, however, favor the buyer, and may be quoted as follows: Pig Metal.—No 1 Foundry, $27 to $28; No 2, $25 to $26; Gray Forge, $24; White and Mottled, $18 to $20. Bars.—2.8c ₱ ℔. Rails, $50@55.

The sales include also one thousand tons White Iron at quotations. Sales, Pig Iron, some three thousand tons, principally No 2 and Forge, at about quotations, with probably more small sales for founders' uses than usual. Also in Rails the closing of negotiations for twenty thousand tons Texas account, noted last week, and sales of eight hundred tons 56s for Western delivery. In Muck Bar, always an indication of improving business, we note sales of two thousand tons Boiled Bars at private terms. In Old Rails we hear of sales of five hundred tons at $29, with several larger lots offering for less.

CLEVELAND.—Pig Iron.—The same lifeless condition, as reported in our last, still continues. As the season of navigation draws to a close, those interested in ores and Pig Iron are figuring up the shipments for the season and the stocks left on hand. Although shipments of ore have been only about 60 ₱ cent. of last year's shipments, there are no fears of a scarcity, and the demand continues light, with actual buying prices for Pig metal somewhat below quotations. This state of affairs has long continued that some change for the better is very much to be hoped, but not much to be expected for some time yet. We have no change to make in prices.

BRITISH IRON MARKET.—A cable dispatch to the Iron Age, under date of 18th, says: Scotch Pig—Since last report there has been a stronger feeling in the market, but toward the close it receded, and prices are weak.

Manufactured Iron—The demand has fallen off and the market is dull, and prices nominal, with very little business doing.

Rails—The market is very dull, with no demand whatever, and quotations are nominal.

Barley Irregularities.

It is stated among barley dealers that there is now an apparent irregularity on the part of some operators regarding warehouse receipts and the quality of the grain delivered thereon. Rumors are current that there is some old No. 3 barley in store—about ten months old—which is not of good color and is not wanted by brewers. The holders of it are charged with having it inspected out into cars, then reinspected and replaced in the elevator and fresh receipts issued therefor, which are placed on the market on an equal footing with those representing fresh arrivals of the late crop. Among dealers this is not considered the square thing, and it is generally condemned.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

New York Wool Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The market has been very quiet since our last report, but this covers a period of the week that rarely gives a fair test of the market, manufacturers chiefly being out of the market. The few sales made have been at prices indicating no change in views of the holders. In fact, the trade generally express considerable confidence in the more desirable grades of Wools, especially Western fleeces. The bids latterly have been mainly on this class of stock, and where parcels have been offering with a view to close out at anything under regular market figures, a trade has promptly resulted. California grades are somewhat difficult to sell, but most holders refuse to modify prices, preferring to await the developments of the trade. The better grades of Texas are steadily held. Foreign Wools generally are held with a fair show of strength, but lightly dealt in at the moment. The transactions are ten thousand lbs Ohio fleeces on private terms; five thousand do. tubwashed at 55½c; ten thousand do. fine unwashed on private terms, ten thousand do. super pulled at 48c; 25 bales Fall California at 21c; 42 bales do; twenty-three thousand lbs do. on private terms; one thousand lbs Spring do. at 29c; 31 bags Western Texas at 26@27c; twelve hundred lbs do. at 24½c; six thousand two hundred and fifty lbs Eastern do. on private terms; 23 bales Nevada and two thousand five hundred lbs do. on private terms; 10 bales Australian sixteen thousand lbs Mexican, and 16 bags Mestiza on private terms, and five thousand lbs Cape pulled at 64c.

GEORGE H. ROHE,
Sergeant, Signal Service, U. S. A.

The river rose about 12 inches yesterday, the marks last evening indicating three feet four inches and rising slowly. The weather was stormy and cold, with a mixture of rain and snow falling all day. It was reported snowing hard at Oil City, hence the prospects are favorable for more water out of that stream, and there is not much doubt but what there will be another swell in the Monongahela, unless the weather should turn suddenly cold, which is not likely. A good coal-boat rise would be of great advantage just now, as there is an immense quantity of coal ready to go, and the owners thereof are anxious to exchange it for greenbacks.

—The Shreveport Comet says: A white man acting as fireman and striker on the United States steamer Sterling, was discharged from employment for voting the white men's ticket, and for the same reason the engineer, Mr. Willis Steward, would have been discharged but that he, knowing the penalty of voting against the Radical party, resigned his position. We are told by men lately in Government employ that the radical negro voters at work on the Raft were brought within easy walking distance of the city that they might vote the Radical ticket, while the white men were sent above Hurricane Bluff for the purpose of keeping them from the polls on election day.

—Bismarck advices under date of 8th inst., report as follows: The Flag Ship of the Kountz Line, and the Mayflower are now tied up to the landing, having arrived here about four days ago. The Peninah is on her way out of the river. Our trains will stop running this week. We have had two heavy falls of snow already, and did not have a train for over a week on account of the roads being blocked.

—Captain Charley Kreamer, Wharfmaster at Louisville, reports the following collections for the two weeks ending Saturday, November 14: City wharf, $141,10; Portland, $43,60; Strader, $570'50. Total, $755,20.

—The owners of the Pauline Carroll will remove her hull, and provide her with an entirely new one of larger capacity. Bids for the job are being solicited from St. Louis builders, and these of Cincinnati, Louisville, &c.

—Mr. E. S. White, of the Shreveport Telegram, has been appointed collector of the port, at Shreveport, La., vice Capt. Fitzgerald, removed. The office is a sinecure, and the salary is $1,500. Thus are the faithful rewarded.

—Two sons of Capt. John Myers, who died some time since, after long suffering from wounds received while pilot at the wheel of the Hallie, above Little Rock, were elected last week as pages of the Arkansas Legislature.

—The Paragon, for St. Louis, passed Memphis Tuesday with 850 tons, only five days out, from New Orleans.

—Messrs. Pate & Co., of Patriot, Ind., are about to buy the steamer Granger, to be used in hauling grain and produce for their large distillery.

—Al. Kountz intends remaining in Bismarck all winter.

—Steam was raised on the new Wall City, at Ironton, on Wednesday.

—Isaac Gaugh and Wm. Ford will pilot the Robt. Mitchell this season.

ME NEWS.

A SWINDLER.

$50 Reward.

e are in receipt of information that a person calling himself Shrum, has been soliciting subscriptions for the WEEKLY GAZETTE at Derry, and other points in Westmoreland county. We had, last week, another communication from the same county, giving information of a person of different name, in the same business. We think the two names represent the same person. We warn all our readers against paying money to any traveling agent, as we have none in our employ, and we hereby offer a reward of $50, for the arrest and conviction of any person thus attempting to swindle the people.

Hodges' Condition.

Last evening a representative of our paper made a visit to Hodges' residence, on Franklin street, to learn, if possible, the condition of the wounded man. He was reported by his friends as improving, and strong hopes are now entertained of his recovery. He suffers considerably from his injuries, but this is nothing more than could be expected.

Will Filed.

The will of Andrew Bur, late of Lower St. Clair township, was filed in the Register's office yesterday. Decedent bequeaths all his property, both real and personal, to his wife, Annie, during her life, and at her death directs that the same shall fall to his only child Mary. Annie Bur is appointed executrix, and Peter Bur executor, of the instrument, which is dated October 6, 1874.

"Checked in his Mad Career."

This morning shortly after midnight a son of W. C. Coffin who keeps a variety store at No. 65 Federal street, Allegheny, was arrested in Stroup's saloon on Fifth avenue, for alleged stealing of about $100 from his fathers store sometime yesterday afternoon. Young Coffin had made good use of the money, for when he was taken into custody he had in his possession a new suit of clothes, a watch and forty-four dollars of the missing money. It was ascertained that he intended leaving the city, an lon going to the Union Depot, his father learned that he had sent his baggage ahead yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, to New Castle, whither, it is supposed, he was going. The lad is not yet sixteen years of age, but, it is said, he frequently takes a notion to leave the parental roof.

Max Schamberg, Esq.

This gentleman, always foremost in the foreign exchange and steamship passenger trade, continues to do a lively and thriving business in our neighborhood, viz: at No. 163 Smithfield street, where he may hourly be consulted regarding the departure and actual, as well as expected, arrivals of steamers, rates of passage, collection of inheritances and legacies in the Old World, and all other monetary and shipping business of an international character. Mr. Schamberg, it is well known, has the agency of all the leading steamship lines, and has direct connection with Europe for his exchange and collection business.

He has also been re-appointed recently, by Governor Hartranft, to the office of Notary Public, and holds many other positions of trust, all of which commend him to the continued confidence of our readers.

We can safely say that we know of no other office in this city so complete in all its details, as that of our said neighbor. Our friends will not forget him.

The Arrest of a Witness in the Criminal Court Room Yesterday.

James Willock, one of Deputy Mayor Heisel's Constables of the South Side, came into the Criminal Court room yesterday, armed with a warrant, for the arrest of a witness who had been subpœnaed in a case of illegal liquor selling, and without any ceremony, placed the handcuffs upon his prisoner whom he conveyed to the Twenty-sixth ward Station House, where he was tried before the Magistrate and subsequently committed. When Judge Sterrett became acquainted with the facts, he sent Detective Dressler to the South Side who brought the witness back to Court, the Constable being requested to accompany them. Upon their arrival the Judge gave the officer a severe reprimand and wanted him to understand that the Quarter Sessions Court was higher than that of the Deputy Mayor.

The prisoner was afterwards discharged by the Court on motion of his attorney, the commitment having been defective in not stating the name of the prosecutor.

ODD FELLOWSHIP.

Nominations for Grand Officers.

The Pennsylvania Grand Lodge I. O. O. F., closed its semi-annual session in Philadelphia on Thursday. The following nominations for Grand Officers were made, and the subordinate Lodges will hold elections during the ensuing six months: Grand Master, Dr. Levergood, of Lancaster. Deputy Grand Master, Mr. Borie, of Philadelphia. Grand Warden, John A. Myler, of Allegheny; John H. Uhl, of Somerset; Mr. Common, of Carlisle; Mr. Greenwood, of Chester; Mr. Weaver, of Harrisburg, and A. L. Potter, of Philadelphia. Grand Secretary, J. B. Nicholson, Philadelphia. Grand Treasurer, M. Richard Muckle, of Philadelphia. Grand Representatives to Grand Lodge, J. Alex. Simpson, N. H. Trunick, Wm. Steadman, Geo. Fling. Upon invitation of the Grand Lodge, A. Y. M., the Grand Lodge visited the new Masonic temple.

A HUNGRY THIEF.

He Goes for a Larder—And Gets a Good Supply.

Last evening an impecunious and hungry child of sin, while meandering along Isabella street, Allegheny, was tempted by the evil one to enter the cellar of the residence of Mr. Joel Smith, manager of the Penn Cotton Mills. It was just at the hour when the evening repast is being enjoyed in every well regulated family, and the trespasser in the cellar, for a brief period, enjoyed respite from interruption. He took advantage of his happy privilege to satisfy the longings of his carnal nature with a feast of good things, and then packed up a basket full of edibles, and with it and all else that he could carry, bid farewell to the subterranean larder. Just as he was disappearing up one flight of stairs toward the street, the servant was coming down the other into the cellar. With true feminine naturalness she piped out an alarm in a sort of tremolo falsetta that roused the inmates of the house, and seemed to electrify the legs of the thief; leastwise he disappeared "over the hills and far away," before the quickest of the pursuers could get within sight, and the only consolation left the family was that "market" comes again this evening, when the larder can be replenished.

Special Notice.

In addition to our business of manufacturing Superior Crackers, we are now putting up in 6 lb sacks a very superior article of Self Raising Flour and Buckwheat. The object of self raising flour is to save the housekeeper the trouble and expense and often uncertainty of using soda, acid or baking powder. With self-raising flour or buckwheat you do not require any yeast, soda, salt, acid or baking powder to produce Biscuit, Cake of any kind, Dough-nuts, Puddings, Pastry or Griddle Cakes. The self-raising is fully mixed with the flour by machinery, so that every particle of flour has its particle of self-raising. You can use your own receipts or those printed on every sack of the flour. With buckwheat, all that is required to produce the lightest of cakes, is to take our self-raising buckwheat flour and make a batter with water and bake at once on a hot griddle. With our Flour and Buckwheat, your Biscuit, &c., will always be the same. This flour, as well as our Superior Crackers and small Cakes, will be found at all the grocers; also at the factory, 91 and 93 Liberty street. AT a meeting held at the Lecture Room of the Second Presbyterian Church Waynesburgh, Greene Co., on Saturday, it was decided to give Rev. Thomas Dale Logan, of Allegheny City, a call to become pastor of the congregation. The formal call was forwarded with an offer of a salary of $1,500 per annum.

NO MAN has a right to live who refuses to take upon himself proper responsibility. God appoints our work and gives directions as to how it shall be done. It is hard to know what is the meaning of a Christianity in the profession of which there is no felt sense of responsibility, with a corresponding willingness to assume it.—United Presbyterian.

D., will deliver his celebrated lecture on the "Life and Labors of John Knox."

PROF. TYNDALL is evidently quite uneasy about the position in which he has placed himself before the public by his atheistic utterances. In a recent lecture, he undertakes to qualify what he had previously said, and intimates pretty plainly that it is only in his despondent moods that he gives way to such absolute despair and doubts. He even went so far as to admit that there might possibly be a higher intelligence in the universe than man. According to his own admission, his liver must now be in a better condition, and consequently the universe does not look so dark.—Presbyterian Banner.

Commencing with Tuesday evening, all the meetings will be under the charge of Maj. D. W. Whittle and P. P. Bliss, of Chicago.

FASHION is hollow enough in the realities of life. When it comes to offer up its gilded prayers before the altar of Divine Grace, to bend its knee at the footstool of Him it professes to love and worship, it simply utters a lie, and compromises with a guilty cowscience for the sins and shortcomings of the week. Let the church open wide her doors to all who seek her counsel; let her worship be in the temples of the lowly; let her sell all and give to the poor; let her return to the primitive simplicity of the early fathers; let her learn meekness from the poor and charity from her Divine Savior. Then may the world yet turn from its wickedness and live, and they who come to scoff at the teachings of an earnest clergy—remain to pray.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

BIBLE READING is either an exercise of devotion, in which we seek to hold communion with God by hearkening to his voice as he speaks to us in his written word, or it is an exercise of study, in which the object is to gain a clearer knowledge, and a larger understanding of the Scriptures, yet it can never be, with absolute exclusiveness, either the one or the other, for in devotional reading there must always be a studious application of the mind to understand the sense of what is read, and in reading for study, there must a ways be a spirit of devotion, or we study to little purpose. Men may become great Bible critics—critics of the letter, with astonishingly little knowledge after all of the Scriptures. True devotion is always intelligent, and true Bible intelligence is always devout.—Christian Advocate.

FINANCIAL MATTERS.

Another Change in Fire Department Salaries—The City Attorney's Expenses—Powers of Committees—South Side Borough Warrants—Election of City Officers.

The Finance Committee held an adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon in the Controlers' office.

The petition of Wm. Hageman, of the Twenty-third ward, for exoneration from the payment of taxes on nearly an acre of land more than he owns, was referred to the City Engineer to ascertain the quantity of land.

On motion of Mr. Thomas, the action taken at the previous meeting fixing the salaries of the Fire Department was reconsidered, and the salary of the store keeper was further reduced from $1,200 to $1,000, and the salary of the Assistant Engineer, which was reduced from $1,380 per annum to $1,100 was increased to $1,200.

A number of street assessments, which the city is obliged to pay on property owned by it, were recommended to Councils for payment.

The ordinance in the city code defining the powers of the City Attorney contains a clause which directs that he shall present to the Controller an account of all disbursements made by him in prosecuting or defending suits to which the city is a party, and that the Controller, upon being satisfied of the correctness of the account, shall certify a warrant for the payment of the same. The ordinance providing for the repeal of this clause, which was referred to the Committee from Select Council, was taken up, and Mr. Aiken moved that it be affirmatively referred back to Councils. He said his object in wishing the ordinance passed was to have all bills for extra legal expenses brought before the Finance Committee. The matter was debated for a while, and when put to a vote, Mr. Aiken's motion was lost.

Mr. Thomas stated that a number of the residents of the old borough of East Birmingham held warrants, which were issued before consolidation, against the Treasurer of the borough and they had been accepted by him but not paid because the Treasury contains no money. They were presented to Controller Snodgrass who offered to pay the face of them but declined to pay interest. To this the holders refuse to accede and threaten to enter suit against the city unless their demands are satisfied. The question was referred to the City Solicitor for an opinion as to whether interest will have to be paid on the warrants.

The ordinance presented in Select Council by Mr Aiken providing for the election by the people of certain city officers now elected by Councils, such as City Solicitor, Assessor, Road and Street Commissioners, Water Works officers, Market officials, &c., was taken up. On motion of Mr. McCandless it was amended by providing for an annual election instead of every three years, and was then affirmatively recommended to Councils.

The next ordinance brought up for consideration was one limiting the assumed powers of Committees of Councils. It provides among other things that no Committee or either branch of Councils shall order the payment of money from the City Treasury, except on the approval of Councils; that no bonds of any description shall be issued only by authority of Councils, &c.

Mr. Lloyd did not favor the ordinance, on the ground that pay rolls, containing the names of one or two hundred men, and other bills demanding immediate payment would be referred to Councils, and a member objecting they would then have to lay over for weeks, and even after their approval by one branch, it would be necessary to secure the sanction of the other in order to insure their validity, and the result would be a great deal of unnecessary delay.

The ordinance was referred to Councils, with a recommendation that it be printed and then referred back to this committee.

Adjourned to meet next Thursday at three o'clock, P. M.

THE REFORM SCHOOL.

An Official Visit—Legislators and Citizens Viewing the Work.

Quite a number of citizens visited the Morganza farm yesterday to inspect the extensive preparations in progress there for the transfer of the inmates and officers of the Reform School (House of Refuge) and the change of the institution from the congregate to the family system. Among those present were the following members-elect of the next Legislature: Dr. Wm. G. Barnet, of Washington county, and Messrs. Hugh McNeil, W. H. Graham, David Rogers, Andrew Large and Peter Zern, of Allegheny county. The buildings and grounds were examined. While in the Recitation Hall, the first public use of it was improved by Rev. R. N. Avery, the Superintendent of the school, addressing the assemblage in explanation of the plan and uses of the various buildings and the advantages of the proposed family over the present congregate system. Mr. Avery was very successful in impressing all present with the necessity for the buildings and their capital adaptation to the purposes of the school.

Subsequently, after lunch at the boarding house of the workmen—better known as the "Hotel de Yeager"—Mr. Avery, by request, made a statement of the estimated cost of the farm and improvements, the amount already expended, the additional appropriations needed to complete the work and read an extract from the report of the Board of Charity in relation to this institution. We conversed with several of the members elect of the Legislature and with others, and all seemed to enter heartily and fully into the views of the managers, and as the institution is neither partizan or denominational they severally regard it in its purely eleemosynary and reformatory character, and as such will favor the granting of such further aid from the Commonwealth as will enable the management, with the least possible delay, to complete their work and establish the school in its new home where we predict that it is destined to achieve the most valuable results, and become a model Reformatory School to which Pennsylvanians may point with undissembled pride. We ought to add that a deputation of the managers accompanied the party, consisting of Mr. John Phillips President, Mr. C. Yeager Treasurer, Dr. Alexander, of Canonsburg, Arthur Hobson, Henry Irwin, John Gilfillan and others. The whole party returned on the 4 o'clock train with no regrets, but that the weather was a little too Novemberish.

ORDINANCES.

The Pea-nut, Cattle and Railroad Questions.

A special meeting of the Ordinance Committee was held yesterday afternoon. A supplementary ordinance relative to the pea-nut, fruit stands, and other obstructions on the sidewalks of the city was affirmatively recommended to Councils; also an ordinance forbidding the driving of cattle (sheep excepted) through the streets between six o'clock A. M. and midnight.

The resolution repealing the ordinance granting certain privileges to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was taken up and Mr. Dalzell, Solicitor for the Railroad Company, was heard and asked that the matter be postponed until they had time to collect certain data which they proposed to submit to the committee.

M. Hays moved that the clerk be instructed to prepare an ordinance embodying the provisions of the resolution for presentation to Councils with an affirmative recommendation.

The motion was adopted and the committee adjourned.

Fashionable, Elegant and Cheap.

An examination of the unusually large and varied assortment of elegant and fashionable suitings of American and European manufacture in stock for winter at Messrs. Hespenheide & Co., No. 50 Sixth street, made us feel as though Jay Cooke & Co. had never "busted;" but when we were informed the prices of some first-class cloths, cassimeres and vestings we felt as if he must have had a good deal to do in reducing prices. But to make a long story short the Messrs. Hespenheide & Co. have an A No. 1 stock of cloths of their own importation, which will be made to measure in first-class suits at very reasonable prices. They have been very careful in their selection of cloths to secure the most durable fabrics, thus assuring their patrons a full return for their investment.

How to Avoid Dyspepsia.

Do not begin the winter by eating fat meats, either beef or pork, for these are next to indigestible, but commence the free use of fish as a substitute for meat, and you will require neither tonics, nor any other aids to digestion. This being settled, the next point is to procure your fresh fish from B. Pulpress, No. 45 Diamond Market, as he keeps an unusually excellent and varied assortment at very low prices.

THE COST OF CITY HALL.

Yesterday's Session of the Auditing Committee—The Bids for the Stone Work Submitted—The Heavy Tax Paid by Architect Kerr—Judge Mellon wants a Financial Statement and not Prayers.

The City Hall Auditing Committee held another meeting yesterday forenoon at the usual place. 'Squire Steel was examined concerning papers in his possession, as Secretary of the Commission, but nothing of interest was brought out. He submitted a written explanation of the payment of interest on City Hall bonds. The contracts of C. J. Schultz were next examined as follows: First contract, $27,072,00; second, $42,207.74; belfry, $11,019.00, and extras in the several sums of $279. 45, $686.13, $261 and $91. Architect Kerr stated that the extras were all necessarily incurred and were approved by the Commission. He submitted his books and gave his total for the several contracts, and a discrepancy between the accounts of the Secretary and architect was discovered. One made the total paid to Schultz $81,555.45, and the other $80,397.45, a difference of $1,158. This was subsequently explained by the statements that two accounts—one of $1,000 for an engine and $158 for a watchman appeared in the architect's account but the amounts had been deducted in that presented by the Secretary. The difference was finally figured down to two cents.

Judge Veech remarked that he would very much like to have some additional light thrown upon the Lyon & Shorb purchase, but a suggestion that the Clerk of Councils produce the documentry evidence necessary to thoroughly clear that matter was adopted, and the examination of contracts was proceeded with.

THE COST OF CITY HALL.

In reply to interrogatories by Judge Mellon, Mr. Kerr stated that in March' 68, he gave a working plan to the Commissioners: they considered it until the June following; the general plan contained the rooms ect,' but not exactly as it is now. On April 27, 1868, he gave the Commissioners a verbal estimate that a fire-proof building such as they wanted, could not be built for less than $500,000; they did not want to go beyond $300,000; gave them no intimation of the cost before this meeting; the plan was for a fire-proof building; this is a fire-proof building; the roof is of wood; the building was put up in pursuance of the plan except that a central hall was substituted for a rotunda; I told the Commissioners it would cost $500,000 but the details were not fixed at the meeting, don't know the extra cost for the eight feet additional depth for the foundation walls; the Third Presbyterian church foundations cost $15,000 more than were estimated. Loam sand would not make a good foundation nor would it have done to put such a building as City Hall on such a base. He had to go deeper for the Custom House foundations.

THE BIDDERS.

Judge Mellon—Were Messrs. Mackin & Co., the lowest bidders.

Mr. Kerr—I explained that the last day. I said then that any man who put in a bid to do the work required at $5,25 did not know anything about his business; I said then, and say now that I never saw Wehmer before he gave the bid or since that time. I told the Commissioners not to accept the bid. I didn't inquire anything about him; knew he couldn't do the work for the money and didn't think it worth while to inquire anything about him. The other bids for the stone work were as follows: Henderson, Mackin & Co., $195,229 for walls, and $4,078 additional for balcony. John L. Knox, $190,000 for walls, and $5,000 for balcony. Austin & Co., $206,378 on walls; balcony, $4,185. Howarth & Co., $200,344 on walls; $4,205 on balcony. Mr. Knox was the lowest bidder but he did not get the contract because I advised the Commission not to give it to him. I considered him a good enough man but he had his hands full, and I did not think him competent to manage this job with the other work he had on hand.

THAT HEAVY TAX.

Judge Mellon—Mr. Kerr stated the other day that he had paid more taxes on this building than any other man in this city. I would like him to explain.

Mr. Kerr—Well I did say so, and say so still. I had been promised five per cent. on the cost of construction, and expected that I would receive $25,000, but was compelled to accept $20,000. I not only furnished the plans, but superintended all the work, and attended to all the details. The Commission did not intimate that the longer they paid me five per cent. the more the building would cost. I frequently advised them to curtail projected expenditures, but they would not allow any dictation. They dictated to me, however, about my pay, and I paid to the building the difference between the $25,000 and the $20,000 I received.

In his examination regarding the site of the building Mr. Kerr further said that his instructions were to make the plans so as to embrace all the ground owned by the city. The cornices of the building project over on the Custom House grounds about twenty-one inches and if the Government sells its property the city will be obliged to purchase the strip, if the windows on that side are to be of any account. He said the officious public and outside superintendents objected to occupying all the space but he was instructed to do so and did it. The gentleman's examination was wound up at this point and he left.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT WANTED.

Judge Mellon said he desired from the City Treasurer a statement showing the amount of money in the Treasury each month, for the purpose of objecting to the amount of interest paid on temporary loans, &c. Judge Veech remarked that it was a legitimate subject for objection, and Mr. Steel said the statement could be obtained from the Treasurer.

Judge Mellon—I want that statement instead of Bishop Kerfoot's prayer, which occupies four pages of the printed report. I think it is improper to mix sacred things with such extravagant expenditures as have been made. I doubt whether the Bishop would have pronounced his benediction if he had known how much the building cost.

Judge Veech—You don't pretend to say that the hall did not need the prayers of the Bishop.

Judge Mellon—No, indeed, I do not. Prayers might have been offered sooner. But I would rather have the report of the Treasurer than a copy of the prayer.

Other minor accounts were audited, after which the Board adjourned until Monday morning.

AN INSURANCE CASE.

Suit Brought in the United States Circuit Court for the Payment of a Policy—The Defense of the Insurance Company.

Mrs. Catharine Coyle brought suit in the United States Circuit Court, some time ago, against the Security Life Insurance and Annuity Company for $3,000 on a policy, issued on the life of her husband, who died in Philadelphia on the 9th day of February, 1871. The disease of which he died was set forth as pleuro pneumonia.

The case came up for trial on Thursday, and the defense claimed that the policy had been obtained by fraud in concealing the fact that the applicant was suffering from a large tumor which was, at the time he made the application for insurance, rapidly increasing in size, and was extremely painful.

In January of 1871 Mr. Coyle went to Philadelphia and consulted Drs. Pancoast and Gross in regard to having the tumor removed, and being informed that the operation would be attended with great danger, he concluded to take the risk and made his arrangements accordingly. Returning to Pittsburgh he made application on the 14th day of January for a policy of insurance in the Security Life Insurance Company for $3,000.

The policy was issued to him on the 18th day of January, and the following week he went to Philadelphia and submitted himself to the surgeons, who removed the tumor. The most careful attention was given him, but he died on the ninth day following, and within thirty days of the date of his application for insurance he was buried in St. Mary's Cemetery, in this city.

In the application no statement was made of this affliction, and to the question "whether he had ever had any illness, local disease, affection or personal injury," a negative answer was given. The policy contained a provision that any untrue or fraudulent answer would render the instrument null and void. After proceeding to this point in the case, the plaintiff took a non suit.

ALLEGHENY FIRE ALARM.

The New Bell—Hoisting it Into Position—Repairing the Telegraph.

Workmen yesterday commenced to raise the new fire alarm bell in Allegheny to its place in the tower of the new Engine House on Sandusky street. It weighs about 6,000 pounds and is about the same size as the bell in this city, and it is no small labor to hoist it to the tower. The work proceeds slowly but as rapidly as is possible to prevent any chance of its breaking from its fastenings and falling. It had been raised about six feet last evening, and it is expected that it will be raised to the tower to-day. After it had been raised from the floor it was struck by a sledge hammer and gave out a sharp, clear, musical sound. There is no doubt but that it will answer very satisfactorily for the purpose for which it was cast. As soon as the bell is in place the work of putting up the striking apparatus will be commenced.

Mr. Rodgers, of Gamewell & Co., is now busily engaged placing the alarm telegraph in good order, and making the necessary alterations on it to connect it with the bell.

Good Brooms Make Good Wives.

No husband can expect his wife to keep her house in apple-pie order unless he furnishes for her use a broom of strength and elasticity, such as are manufactured by Wm. Mardorff, the great "Broom King," and many cases of domestic infelicity are traceable to imperfect and defective brooms. Mardorff's brooms will cause peace, contentment and happiness to reign throughout the household. It has cured many a husband of his late hours; and kept many others from going out to "see a man." Of the best material and best manufacture it never fails to give satisfaction. Ask your grocer for th e ardorff broom. Take no other at any price. His is the best and therefore the cheapest.

A Fine Selection.

It is admitted on all hands that no finer and better selection of Cloths, Cassimeres and Vestings can be found anywhere else than at the fashionable Merchant Tailoring House of B. Tiegel, No. 53 Smithfield street. Late styles from the most reputable manufactories of Europe and America. Suits made to order with all promptness, and fit and satisfaction guaranteed.

A GOOD MAN GONE.

Death of Henry Lambert, Esq.—The Record of His Life.

The community was somewhat startled, and there was unusual sorrow, yesterday, when announcement was made of the demise of Henry Lambert, Esq., one of Pittsburgh's most highly honored citizens. The sad event occurred at the family residence, on Herron avenue, Thirteenth ward, and though not entirely unexpected by his immediate friends, was a matter of surprise to the public, to whom his condition was not known. The deceased had been in ill health for several years past, suffering from an affection of the liver, but it has only been for the last two weeks that he has been confined to his home, and until within a few days, his medical attendants considered his condition favorable, and had hopes of his recovery. A change took place, however, within the present week, and a severe attack of jaundice and diarrhœa, which resisted all medical skill, resulted in his death yesterday morning, a few minutes after seven o'clock.

The deceased was widely known in the community, both in an official and private capacity, and was recognized by all who knew him as a model Christian gentleman. He was a native of Dublin, Ireland, and came to this country in the days of his early youth. He spent a few years in Philadelphia, and then followed the "Star of Empire" westward to Pittsburgh. He came here about the year 1842, and entered the wholesale grocery house of Mr. Wm. Bagaley. Subsequently he engaged as bookkeeper for Mr. Henry HeCullouch, also in the wholesale grocery business, and in 1844, just before Pittsburgh's great conflagration, he became a partner in the firm, the style being McCulloch & Lambert. Business was carried on at the foot of Wood street. The firm was burned out by the big fire, and in 1846 Mr. McCulloch's interest was purchased by John Shipton, Esq. The firm of Lambert & Shipton carried on business on the present site of the First Presbyterian Church, Wood street, for six years, and in 1852 moved to Sixth avenue, near Liberty street, where the business has been carried on since. In 1866 Mr. Lambert retired from the firm, Mr. Wallace purchasing his interest.

While engaged in active business, his character for integrity became so widely known that when the office of City Controller was created in 1858, he was chosen for the position, and held the office for three years. He discharged his duties with such fidelity and ability that the people, without regard to party feeling, acknowledged his worth, and he was looked upon as an official, good for any responsible trust within the gift of the people. In 1861 the office of County Controller was established, by the Legislature, and such was the estimate put upon him that he was at once appointed to fill the position until the first election. In October 1861 the community endorsed this selection by electing him to the office, and he was continued in office for three successive terms, with a certainty of having a life tenure of the position, had he not, through considerations of health declined a re-election in 1870. He then retired to private life followed by the kindliest wishes of a community that had long looked upon him as a model public officer, and one in whom they would have confided any public trust.

Having thus retired to private life he refused to accept any offers of official honors save those in connection with his private business. As a member of the fraternity of Odd Fellows, Mr. Lambert held many responsible positions, and was elected Grand Master of Pennsylvania twenty years ago. Henry Lambert Lodge, I. O. O. F., was also named in his honor. The deceased was also a member of St John's Lodge, 219, A. Y. M., of this city. In May Mr. Lambert was called to the Presidency of the Odd Fellows' Savings Bank on Fourth avenue, which position he held at the time of his death.

The deceased was a man who was honored and beloved for his talents and his virtues whereever he was known. If "an honest man is the noblest work of God," he was one of the finest specimens of manhood that ever enamaled from the Creative hand. In his official life his name was a synonym for incorruptible integrity, and throughout his official career never the slighest shadow of wrong attached to his course.

In his public life he was characterized by dignified courtesy, and all who had official relations with him, found him a most approachable, kindly and agreeable gentleman. He had that ready tact which could be decisive without wounding, and thus he never made an enemy, though often called to be, in fact, as well as in name, a controller.

In the social circle he was a man of genial nature, full of the milk of human kindness, and one who won the love as well as the esteem of his associate in all his social relations. He was a leading member of the U. P. church of which Rev. W. J. Reid is pastor, and was as faithful and earnest in meeting his obligations as a Christian as he was in discharging every duty elsewhere. He was indeed one of those rare men whose lives are fragrant with goodly purity and good works, and whose influence lives long after the life of the body has passed away.

The deceased leaves a wife and four children, whose grief will in a measure be shared in by a community that mourns the loss of one of its best and truest representatives of noble manhood.

AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

"Did you ever see so full a house on a night so mournful and dreary as this," said a friend last night watching the gay and fashionable crowd sweeping down the broad, tiled entrance to the Opera House into the cold and cheerless street. "No additional evidence is needed," he added, "to convince one that Lawrence Barrett's popularity is second to that of no actor who visits Pittsburgh." The writer freely admitted the fact, and just as freely acknowledges the merit of his acting. Last night being his benefit he appeared in two superb comedies, "The Iron Chest" and "The Wonder," and of his personations it would be a work of supererogation to praise them, for everything he essays is, at least, well done, and nothing can be added to the universal sentiment of public approval. Mr. Owen, during this engagement, has been constantly winning golden opinions and nightly becomes a greater favorite. As Lisardo, in "The Wonder," he was extremely funny, and sustained the part very satisfactorily. Miss Troy as Violante, the sweet heart of Don Felix (Mr. Barrett) was just what sweethearts are generally supposed to be, and that her exhibitions of maidenly coyness and all confiding affection were quite true to nature, the blushing maidens and chuckling youths in the audience were sufficient proof. Miss Katie Baker's Flora was a vivacious, commendable piece of acting. Mr. Johnson's very good Gibby would have been better had his Scotch dialect been more evident to the sense of hearing.

This evening Mr. Barrett's engagement closes, and at the matinee this afternoon the excellent bill of last night will be repeated, and a more enjoyable performance could not be witnessed. To-night "The Duke's Motto" will be presented.

On Monday evening Miss Effie Ellsler appears as Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet."

Kellogg English Opera.

Miss Clara Louisa Kellogg's famous English Opera troupe commences an engagement of three nights at Library Hall, on Thursday evening, December 3d. Circulars can be procured at Hale's Music store.

"The Actor of the Platform."

The next entertainment in the Library Course will be given by Stuart Rogers, "the Actor of the Platform," next Tuesday evening. An eastern critic speaking of him says: "In the way of reading and impersonating what he reads, he is certainly a genius. His voice goes over keys of utterance from the lowest gutturals up to a feminine falsetto, apparently with equal ease, while he can manage his facial muscles with surprising facility, producing a great variety of effects."

Dramatic and Musical Notes.

THE Opera House was crowded last night.

THERE were not fifty people at the Academy of Music last night, all told.

THE Kellogg English Opera Company is winning golden opinions from press and people in Cincinnati.

MISS KELLOGG and her English Opera Company have recently achieved success in the Western cities in a version of Mignon."

MISS EFFIE ELLSLER is the next bright particular star at the Opera House, opening on Monday evening in one of her best roles as Juliet.

MATILDA HERON contemplates astonishing the public with a new pupil and a new play. If the pupil be as bright as Bijou, Matilda has a pair of jewels.

MR. ZIMMERMAN, the gentlemanly advance agent of the Kellogg English Opera Company, is busy perfecting arrangements for the season of English opera, which opens at Library Hall, on December 3d.

IT IS reported that Miss Annie Louise Carey is married to Max Strakosch. One thing is undoubtedly true, and that is that her costumes are infinitely richer than ever before.

MR. LAWRENCE BARRETT concludes a very successful two weeks' engagement at the Pittsburgh Opera House this afternoon and evening, and will rejoin his own company in Ohio next week.

SOTHERN at the London Haymarket—coals at Newcastle. All parties sold except the dreary lord. An attempt will probably be made to sell our people next week on the same style of acting, but will it succeed.

ALBANI was first said to be engaged, but it is now stated that she was married before she left England to Mr. Gye, the son of the London manager of that name, who, with her mother, accompanied her to this country.

MISS CLARA MORRIS is said to have been married for some time to a wealthy young Englishman, a Mr. Narriott, a very gentlemanly and intelligent individual, and very devoted to his gifted young wife. This will prove another damper to the ardor of certain "critics" hereabouts.

WHEN LOTTA reached the dressing-room of a Brooklyn theatre, one night last week, she missed a $2,500 diamond from one of her ear rings. After a long search she thought of the restaurant where she had taken tea, and there, sure enough, she found her diamond lying on the floor near where she had been sitting.

MR. MARCUS R. MAYER, the popular and courteous business agent of Mr. Lawrence Barrett, takes his departure for the West to-day. He has made many warm friends among the gentlemen of the press and others during his limited stay in the city, and will carry with him the well wishes of all.

A CURIOUS case of real comedy business occurred at Wallack's on the first production of "The Shaughraun." Owing to an accident, the moon failed to appear at Bathgarron Head. The stage manager rushed to the wings. "Keep on as long as you can, Monti—the moon busted!" Meantime the sentimental young officer kept on as if no celestial disturbance had happened.
